THE 1972 VIRGINIA OUTDOOR RECREATION INVENTORY

by

William T. Bolger and Gerald L. Stokes^{1/}

INTRODUCTION

The Virginia Commission of Outdoor Recreation coordinated the inventorying of outdoor recreation facilities in the state between June and December, 1972. The inventory is an integral part of the Virginia Outdoors Plan Information System. Its primary purpose was to provide data for the Commission to formulate and write the statewide comprehensive outdoor recreation plan. However, the intended use of these data was much broader. It was envisaged that they would be useful for other planning activities, such as those conducted by federal and state agencies or the 22 Planning District Commissions in Virginia, as well as for various research activities, special studies, and teaching.

The purpose of this publication is threefold. The first is to encourage further use of the data by informing the public of its existence and the specific variables contained therein. The second is to present a limited but comprehensive set of data which can be used to answer general inquiries and which will save interested parties the trouble of writing to obtain it. Finally, we wish to inform the public of the availability of the data in other forms which may better suit individual needs but which would be too numerous to publish in this bulletin.

THE FIELD DATA

An initial inventory was developed by the Commission in the office from the sources listed in Appendix I. Standard inventory forms were filled out for each recreation unit and sent to the field for verification. In some cases, verification entailed an on-the-ground check of the unit and in others the verification was made by a phone conversation with the unit's manager or from local office records. Additional recreation units were added by field personnel, based on their knowledge of existing units.

^{1/}William A. Leuschner is Assistant Professor of Forest Economics and David L. Groves is Extension Specialist in the Division of Forestry and Wildlife Resources, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia 24061. William T. Bolger and Gerald L. Stokes are Outdoor Recreation Planners on the staff of the Virginia Commission of Outdoor Recreation, Richmond, Virginia 23219.

Most of the manpower for the field work was supplied by the currently organized Planning District staffs. In other cases, local park and recreation personnel, Extension agents, or state and federal agencies supplied the necessary review assistance. Additions, deletions, and corrections to this inventory will be noted as the Commission becomes aware of them and the data file will be updated as the accumulation of new data warrants.

Complete field verification will be conducted again when possible. This verification will be accomplished by the field personnel used in the original inventory or by contract if funds allow. Availability of manpower and funds will determine the frequency of on-site review of the data.

Field data were checked for obvious errors and transferred to code sheets by the Commission at its Richmond office. This caused about 1,000 of the original 5,000 units to be eliminated because of data deficiencies. Thus, the data presented in this report are not a complete inventory of all recreation units in Virginia. The eliminated units will be added to the inventory as field checks provide reliable information about them. The code sheets were forwarded to the Department of Forestry and Forest Products, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, for data card punching, disk storage on the IBM 370/158, and preparation of data summaries.

DATA FORMAT AND AVAILABILITY

Data summaries are available in several standard formats for public use IN THE OFFICE at both the Commission of Outdoor Recreation and the Department of Forestry and Forest Products. In addition, computer runs for special summaries or data extraction can be made at cost, depending on programmer availability. All requests for special runs or questions concerning the data should be directed to:

Director
Commission of Outdoor Recreation
803 East Broad Street
Richmond, Virginia 23219

The standard summaries are:

1. Recreation Unit List - A list of all variables for each recreation unit in numerical sequence by designator number within agency, within locality, within Planning District, within Recreation Planning Region. (See following discussion for definitions).
2. Locality Summary - A summary for each of 134 localities of all variables beginning with "Total Acreage". The summary contains a sub-total for each agency within the locality and the total for the locality.

3. Recreation Region and Planning District Summary - A summary for each of the 11 Recreation Planning Regions of all variables. Data within Recreation Planning Region are sub-totaled by each agency and by federal, state, local, and private ownership for each Planning District. In addition, Recreation Planning Region sub-totals for these ownership classes and a regional grand total are presented.

The list and summaries are unlabeled and require an acetate overlay to interpret them. Further, sub-totals and the totals for some variables are unavailable because of overflow in the format statements. In this case the user may calculate the desired totals from the Recreation Unit List.

DESCRIPTION OF THE DATA

A recreational unit is defined by the Commission of Outdoor Recreation as an area with outdoor recreational value that is administered by a class of/or particular agency; is within the boundaries of one political jurisdiction (city or county); and is distinct from other such areas. To have recreational value an area must have, in the judgment of the person making the inventory, the capability of offering opportunity for outdoor recreation activity but need not be doing so now. Recreation areas crossing political boundaries are sub-divided into components contained within such boundaries. These components then become the recreation unit which is inventoried. For example, a regional park which lies in three counties would be inventoried as three separate recreation units. The essence of this definition is that a recreation unit must offer current or potential recreational opportunities, be readily identifiable on the ground, and be contained within a local political jurisdiction.

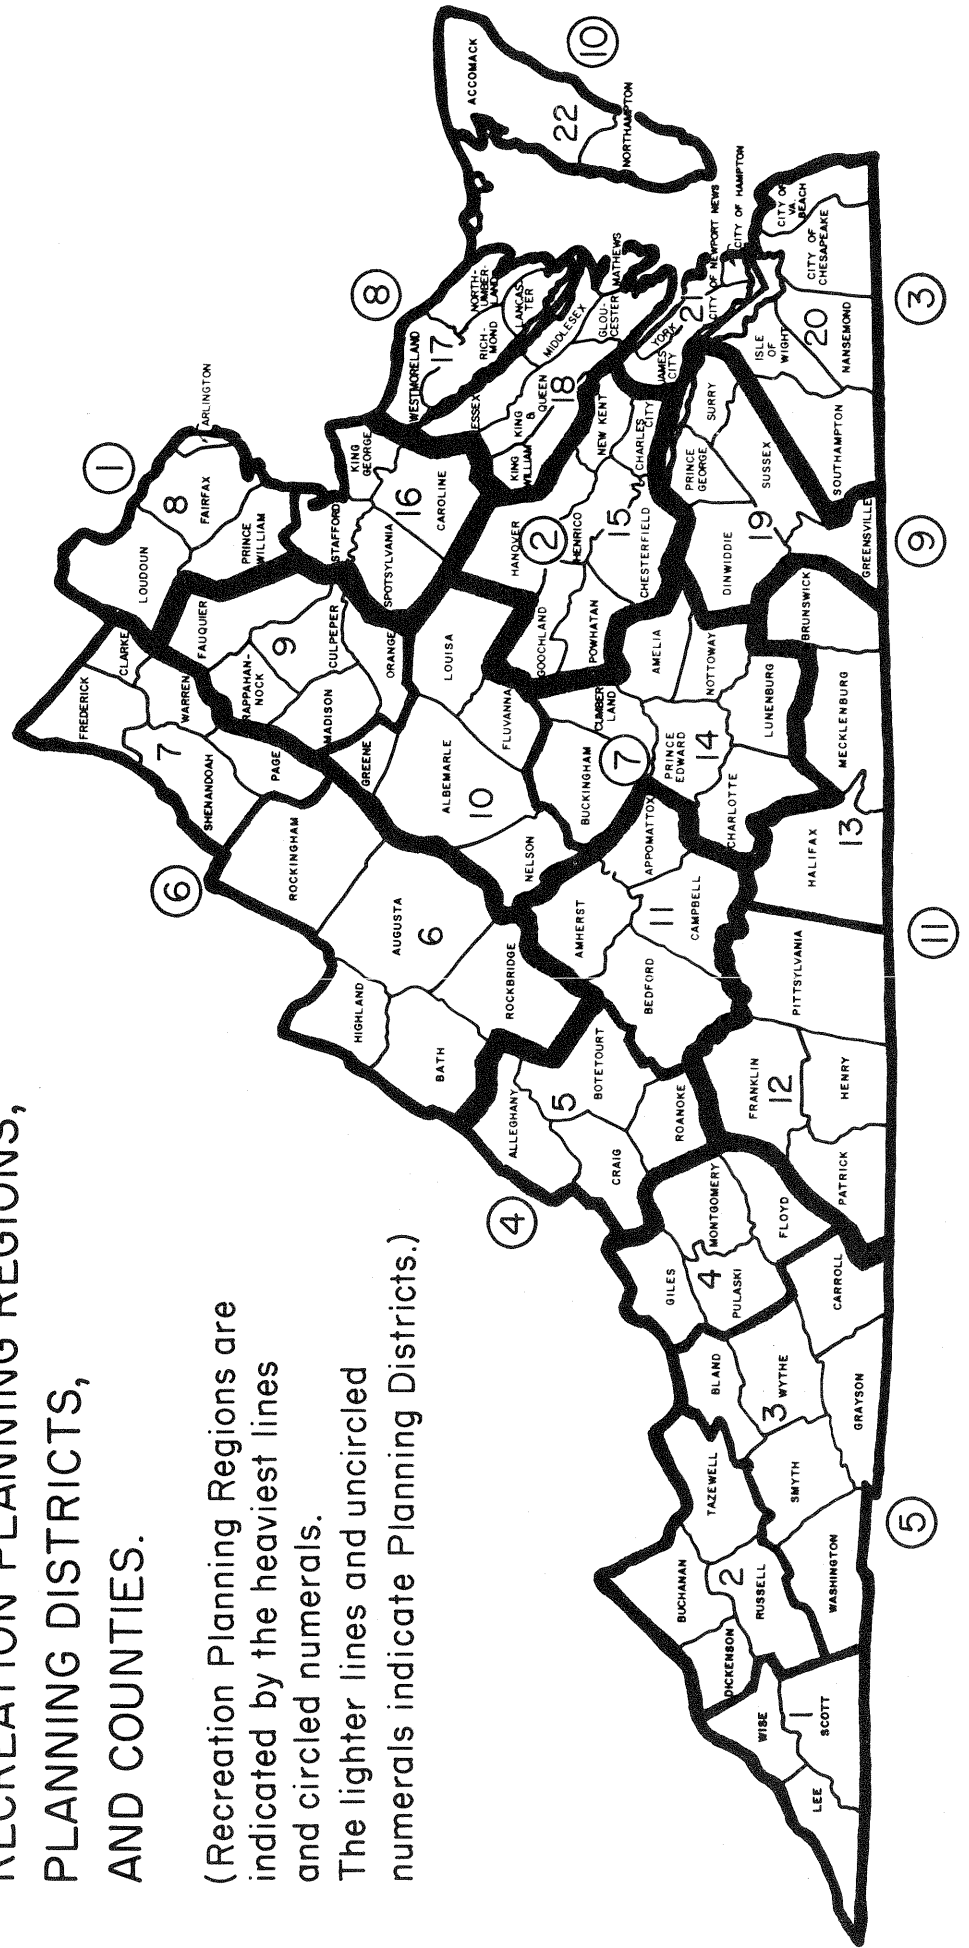

Geographical Variables

Each recreation unit is identified by several geographical sub-divisions. In ascending hierarchial order these are:

1. Locality - The locality is one of the 95 counties or 39 independent cities in the State of Virginia.
2. Planning Districts - Planning Districts are multi-county and/or independent city areas created by the Virginia State Legislature to "... prepare a comprehensive plan for the guidance of the development of the district ... (including) all elements which are of importance in more than one of the governmental subdivisions within the district, ..." (Virginia Code, 1950) (Figure 1).
3. Recreation Planning Region - The Commission has divided the state into 11 recreation planning regions. Each of these regions entirely contains one or more Planning Districts.

RECREATION PLANNING REGIONS, PLANNING DISTRICTS, AND COUNTIES.

(Recreation Planning Regions are indicated by the heaviest lines and circled numerals.)
The lighter lines and uncircled numerals indicate Planning Districts.)

Categorical Variables

Each recreation unit has five categorical variables in addition to the name of the unit and the geographical variables. These variables, which are further defined in appendix III, are:

1. Agency - Identifies the type of and in some cases the specific agency which administers the recreation unit.
2. Level of Responsibility - Identifies the category or level of government which administers the recreation unit.
3. Dominant Land Class - Indicates the dominant recreation appeal of the unit.
4. Primary Feature or Use - The primary physiographic feature or use which attracts users to the unit.
5. Use Type - Essentially, shows whether or not the unit is available to the general public.

Special computer runs can be made sorting the data on several combinations of the geographical and categorical variables. For example, it is possible to list or summarize by Planning District variables for all state administered units which are open to the public and are primitive areas in a forest surrounding.

Tables 1 and 2, which follow, summarize the data by those categories felt most generally useful. The three appendices following the tables contain lists and definitions of the localities, the categorical variables, and the variables inventoried at each recreation unit. These appendices will be useful in interpreting the data in tables 1 and 2.

APPENDIX I - INITIAL INVENTORY DATA SOURCES

Commission of Outdoor Recreation, Virginia Outdoors Plan, Richmond, Virginia, 1970.

Fresh Water Fishing and Hunting in Virginia, Alexandria Drafting Company, Alexandria, Virginia, 1970.

Meixsell, Mike and Robert Lee, Jr., Fishing in Virginia, Virginia Sports
Publishers, Alexandria, Virginia, 1972.

Virginia Department of Health, List of Campgrounds, mimeographed, 1972.

Virginia Department of Highways, Rest Areas and Waysides, Richmond, Virginia, 1969.

Virginia Saltwater Sport Fishing Atlas, Alexandria Drafting Company, Alexandria, Virginia, 1970.

Various other unpublished reports and memoranda on file at the Commission of Outdoor Recreation were also used. Many of these are informal communications from the various Planning District staffs and state and local government agencies.

APPENDIX II - LIST OF LOCALITIES

The Recreation Planning Regions and the Planning Districts are defined by the counties which they include. These can be obtained from figure 1 on page 6.

The following list includes the name of each locality and the number of the Planning District and the Recreation Planning Region within which it is included. Independent cities are indicated by "(City)".
